BLANKETS, ETC.—GEO. M. SNOOK & CO.

Snook & Co.

A Difficult---

VERY difficult matter to single out items in the new house-furnishing section, simply because there are so very many good things in it. Here are a few anyhow:

Getting Colder....

Lots of Blankets and Comforts are waiting you here. Cotton Blankets 39c up. All Wool Blankets $2.55 and up to $18. We only need to add that they are the famous St. Mary's.

Look Like Eiderdown--

Patterns same—same fluffiness, but they're only the finest sanitary cotton filled Satine and Silkline Comforts—$1.39 to $3.90. Eiderdown Comforts also.

Exclusive Designs

in the "New Idea" Lace Curtains, only to be had here. These designs $1.98 up, but we have Lace Curtains as low as 39c pair and as high as $35 pair.

Chenille Portieres are back again—prettier than ever. Start at $3.69 pair. A dozen other sorts up to $12.90. Rope Portieres $1.67 to $9.90.

Richness of Color and design, sure, in the new Art Draperies—Cretones, Denims, Wash Plushes, Tinted Persian Stripes, Vari-colored Ottoman Stripes, etc. 12½c to $1.25 yard.

All of these on second floor—a pleasant, airy room in which to shop.

New shapes in Lamps and Onyx Tables. New Bric-a-Brac and Chinaware opened daily. Look at the big window.

Entertain Their Pastors.

The Wesley Church Chapter of the Epworth League last night tendered a reception to the church's pastor, Rev. S. P. Crummett, in honor of his return to the congregation from conference.

This evening the Zane Street Leaguers will welcome their new pastor, Rev. E. D. Hanna.

Social Permits.

City Health Officer Jepson issued burial permits as follows:

Mrs. Paulstick, white, 23 years; pulmonary tuberculosis; 2326 Main street.

Mildred McCurdy, white, infant; infantile; rear of 2624 Chapline street.

Adolph Fritz, Jr., white, 23 years; palpitation of heart; 3937 Jacob street.

Harrison Woods, colored, 40 years; typhoid fever; City Hospital.

Odell Sebastian, white, 25 years; accidental fall; Top Mill.

Iron and Steel Trade.

Reviewing the iron and steel trade yesterday's issue of the Ohio Valley Manufacturer says:

Conditions are quiet and fairly satisfactory. Augmenting volume of production does not tend to harden prices, but so far the effect has not been serious. The "Valley combination" have made arrangements to fortify their plan, by appointing W. P. Snyder, of Pittsburgh, their sole selling agent. Other producing centers seem better prepared, through very large home consumptions, to encounter incidental savings and withstand them. Furnaces and mills are actively employed filling orders on old contracts. New business is not coming with a rush. Bessemer pig metal, $10.40; billets, $15.85.

DON'T forget the Pig Roast and Concert at Jefferson's Saloon, Benwood, Saturday evening, October 22.

GENERAL GROSVENOR

To Address the Voters of Eastern Ohio To-night.

THE OVER-THE-RIVER TOWNS

AND WHEELING WILL SEND NUMEROUS DELEGATIONS TO THE TOWN AT THE END OF THE BRIDGE—CAPTAIN DANFORD IS THE OTHER PRINCIPAL SPEAKER OF THE MEETING WHICH WILL BE PRESIDED OVER BY AN OLD SOLDIER, CAPTAIN O. M. DAVIS.

The Grosvenor-Danford Republican meeting in the Bridgeport opera house to-night, promises to be a big one. The central committee has everything arranged to make it a success. Music, red fire, and a general good time on the street is assured before the meeting begins.

The committee has reserved the stage seats for G. A. R. men and other old men who may attend. Captain O. M. Davis, an old soldier, will act as chairman.

It will be General Grosvenor's first speech in Bridgeport, but his speeches have been read, and his reputation as an aggressive exponent of Republican principles and ideas is well known.

Captain Lorenzo Danford needs no introduction to a Bridgeport, Belmont county, Ohio audience, and in fact his name and fame are not confined within the limits of his native state, which he honors. The captain was in the line of blue that stood like a stone wall against the onslaughts of rebellion, and ever since his eloquent voice has been ready and potent in defense of Republican principles. His public and professional career commands respect and admiration, and to know him personally is to love him.

G. A. R. men from neighboring towns and vicinity will be carefully provided with stage seats.

Wheeling will send over a numerous delegation this evening. To hear General Grosvenor is worth going more than the half mile to Bridgeport.

Captain Danford and General Grosvenor will be at the Belmont hotel, where they will be pleased to meet their friends after the meeting.

The Intelligencer has issued an "Election Hand Book," which ought to be in the hands of every Republican voter in Ohio county who is desirous of seeing the entire vote out at the approaching election. The book is neatly bound and of a size that will accommodate itself to the vest pocket. Much valuable information is condensed within its thirty pages, including the names of the election judges in the sixty precincts of the county, the location of the precincts, and the new district and precinct boundary lines, as recently established by the board of county commissioners. These lines will be in effect for the first time at the coming election and it is therefore important that voters learn exactly "where they are at," so to speak. A large edition of the hand book has been published, and Republican voters and workers can secure copies by calling at the Intelligencer counting room. Call at once, before the edition is exhausted.

The announcement that Senator Elkins will speak in Wheeling will be received with satisfaction by Wheeling and Ohio county Republicans, who have in the past listened to the eloquence and imbued the logic that characterize the West Virginia senator's public utterances. The senator was in Parkersburg yesterday, and in the afternoon he conversed with prominent local Republicans who were there yesterday, and the result was that he consented to speak in Wheeling next Friday evening, October 23. The particulars of the meeting will be announced from time to time in this paper.

City Collector James K. Hall, Sheriff Richards and Circuit Clerk Hanning went down to Parkersburg yesterday and attended the Elkins-Atkinson meeting last night. Speaking of the meeting, over the long-distance telephone, Mr. Hall said the meeting was a rouser.

Attention, Old Soldiers and Friends of old Soldiers.

Your attention is called to the G. A. R. ban-bake to be given by Holliday Post, at Odd Fellows' hall, on Saturday evening, October 23, for the benefit of the post. Old Mother Holliday, who is ninety-six years of age, having made and quilted a very fine quilt and having presented it to Holliday Post, it will be chanced off at this ban-bake at ten cents per chance. All of our friends and those feeling an interest in the welfare of the post, are cordially invited to be present. Tickets are only fifteen cents, including supper. Supper to be served from 5 until 9 o'clock. At 9 o'clock the quilt will be disposed of. The hall will be cleared for dancing from 9 until 12. Music on piano by L. Miller. Come everybody and spend an evening with the old boys in blue. By order of COMMITTEE.
